

Residential Development Suitability Assessment - Gallatin County, MT

- Good Suitability
- Great Suitability
- Excellent Suitability

When developing residential areas, one needs to consider a number of factors. For these two maps that display the suitability for residential development in Gallatin County, MT (more specifically the greater Bozeman area), the following factors are considered: farmland, slope, distance to a nearby city, and floodplains. The map on the left displays the most suitable development areas when prioritizing flood plain avoidance. The map on the right, however, displays suitable regions when prioritizing conserving farmland.
